Although it may seem like a large majority of the homosexual film industry caters to exclusively to gay men, you may be surprised to find that there is a huge list of lesbian titles out there. Whether you want romance, erotica, or simply a good family story that features women instead of men, GENX has some selections for you to try out!

“Exes and Ohs” – Television satire that challenges lesbian stereotypes with mini-dramas. The result sheds sincere light onto the reality of same-sex relationships and lesbian culture.

Saving Face – A family comedy featuring a young lesbian couple who find themselves suddenly responsible for saving the reputation of a staunchly traditional mother.

Loving Annabelle – A precocious teenager and her Catholic school teacher must negotiate difficult waters as they fall in love and start a smoldering affair.

Tipping the Velvet – A provocative alternative to Jane Austen classics, this story follows a young Victorian girl as she flees to London to experience the excitement of music hall life (and the love of a male impersonator).

The Crash Pad – Hardcore feminist erotica staged in a secret apartment in which holders of its key can experiment sexually. Winners of many awards, including Hottest Dyke Sex Scene from the Feminist Porn Awards.

Being a teenager means that you are filled with embarrassing questions, sexual curiosity, romantic crushes, and raging hormones. This is a time in your life when you are starting to look for relationship ideals that are independent of your parents and their experiences. This is also a time when you might be trying to figure out where on earth you fit in.

Being a LGBTQ teen means that finding answers and outlets for all of these new changes can be a bit of a challenge. On top of this, you have a bunch of additional issues to deal with: coming out, learning how to express yourself sexually, finding romantic relationships, and dealing with the specifics of sexual health.

You may not realize it, but there are tons of movies out there that cater to teenagers facing such challenges!
Get Real – Openly gay teen deals with the complications of his secret romance with the school’s star athlete.

But I’m a Cheerleader – Tongue-in-cheek comedy about a misunderstood girl whose parents send her to a gay-rehabilitation boot camp despite a lack of evidence that she's actually gay.

Prom Queen – Based on a true (local!) story, an openly gay teen is banned from bringing his boyfriend to the prom as his date. He fights back against the school, rallying more than just his friends to join his cause.

The Incredibly True Adventures of Two Girls in Love – Two girls from “opposite sides of the tracks” fall in love and begin a relationship, resulting in opposing reactions from their respective families.

Beautiful Thing – Urban story of a gay teen pursuing his growing love for the boy next door, while still trying to remain closeted from his over-protective mother.

D.E.B.S. – Goofy movie about a sexy villain-girl who, while fighting a gang of super spy-girls, manages to seduce one of their team.

The OK2BME staff provides two different kinds of services for gay children and teens: support and outreach. Support services include individual and family counseling for children, teens, and their parents who want to talk to someone about questions or problems that they're having. Outreach services are made up of social and recreational groups throughout the KW area.

You can call or email us, or ask someone you trust – like a teacher, parent, or social worker – to help you get in touch. We believe strongly in confidentiality, so let us know how best to return your inquiries, be it either directly or through a friend. We are here to help you!
